Legacy of a Spy
Book of Month Club
Mystery Selection

WOLFEBORO—Legacy of a Spy, the recently published thriller on espionage, written by local author Henry S. Maxfield, is in the best seller circle. The book, dealing with the adventures of a U.S. agent assigned to break up a spy ring in the Alps, is one of the selections offered on the current bulletin of the Book of the Month club.

Reviewer Elizabeth Easton describes the work of Mr. Maxfield as fresh and exciting as an actual case in which the reader happens to be involved. The author, who served three years as an intelligence officer with the CIA, she says, shows just how secret agents operate.
